BASIC PRINCIPLES

By Chase S. Osborn.

This is the land of hope and happi ness. It is made by it the interpretation of the teaching of the Master whose birth we commemorate at this cason. Christianity should mean lib erty, life, love, brotherhood and of the sweetest emotions possible humanity. He who builds a temple of love in his heart is a true Christian. Love God, Love thy neighbor as thyself. These are the messages of Christmastide. The nearest to which we approach obedience to these commands measures the volume of ou real happiness and our true usefulness. All we know of ethical standards comes from the teachings of Jesus Christ. All we know of Justice and Mercy we have learned from Holy Writ. All of our civilization is an evolution of Christianity. If we adhere to and practice Christianity we will endure as a united people; if we
